Published every week-day afternoon.
 Subscriptions: One year, $3; one month, 25 cents; single copy, 1 cent.
 Frank D. Langley, Publisher.

Entered at the Postoffice at Barre as Second Class Matter.

THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1908.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

4,750

Admiral Rodjestyevsky has been marked.

The "Big Fine" fades away, and there's no alternative sentence.

Boston is experiencing another of its periodical "waves of crime."

Constant dropping wears away the hardest stone; constant hammering has secured a fire alarm whistle for Rutland.

The peaceful Mayflower started to lead the strenuous life with President Roosevelt on board and sank a schooner when nobody was looking.

Historical facts are being garnered in Quebec, where the Prince of Wales is visiting, just as they were garnered when the last preceding Prince of Wales (now King Edward) made his American tour.

Myran not coming to Vermont? Well, that's to be expected, for Vermont is "small potatoes" compared with the big doubtful states where he believes his services are needed and where they may count.

One reminder that tax-payers are considered on a level is the little note to all requesting a settlement on or before August 10. There is this less doleful feature about the note: that provided you are not richer than last year, your taxes are smaller. So step lively, gentlemen; the city needs the money.

Our keen neighbor, the Concord Monitor, makes a sharp observation in the following: "The Independence League ticket in Vermont will serve to demonstrate how such an infinitesimal quantity as the Democratic vote in that state can be divided." It would be a true observation if the Independence League had a ghost of a show in this state.

Montpelier is the prize nature taking city of the state. It developed the rustic table that budded and grew leaves, the beer slops that grew hops, the elm tree borer that looked like a steam drill, and the tame bass, ten pounds weight, that ate from the hand. What next?—Rutland Herald.

Next see John Senter perched on a Republican roost and crying, "What a fine bird am I!"

BARRE SCHOOL PROSPECTS GOOD.

The announcement of the teaching force in the Barre public schools for another year reveals few changes in the staff, which indicates that the coming year should prove a strong one insofar as progress in the work is concerned. There will not be need for the waste of time incident to accustomed new teachers to the methods of the system here employed; and all should, therefore, be in a position to resume their instruction with little or no delay. That such conditions are to prevail is a matter for congratulation among the supporters of the schools and the residents of the city in general. Barre has dealt with its teachers with a fairly generous hand.

This sale is a roarer! Come early and get the lion's share.

Our lines are now complete. We can fit every man from 34 to 46 chest. All this season's stock. See those $18.00 and $20.00 Suits, we're selling on this sale for giving them salaries which range above the average paid in the larger communities of Vermont, and is thus able to command better teachers, as well as to retain the services of those who might otherwise be tempted to go to more populous cities, where the emoluments are greater. Frequent instances of loss of teachers because of this last-named condition have emphasized the remedy and not long since the commissioners made a raise in the salaries of the teachers, giving special inducements to those who have seen long service in the schools here. We believe that the practical unanimity of the re-engagements for the coming year is due to this fact; and the wisdom of the action is thereby established. Frequent change in the teaching force is inimical to progress in the public school work.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Will Serve Good Purpose.

Considerable discussion has been indulged in over the filling of a town delegation in the Republican county convention by men from another town, and the unanimous opinion seems to be that such a proceeding is altogether unwise. It has, however, been practiced in the past, so often in fact, that the horror-stricken expressions of several gentlemen over the situation this year was calculated to amuse, if not instruct, those who were familiar with the procedures in the past, but who had no axe to grind at this time. The action in the matter in the convention, and the general discussion of the subject will probably serve a good purpose in doing away with the practice in the future.—Northfield News.

The Real Father.

Elsewhere we give an article from the St. Albans Messenger on "Who Was the Father" of the rural free delivery in Vermont. Much has been said about this and as The Messenger places the credit in the true place, assigning the honor to Hon. H. H. Powers of Morrisville, we are sure the article will be read with much interest. When Judge Powers was in Congress, this was strongly agitated by him, and it was through his untiring efforts that it was brought about. The work has been very successfully continued by Judge Powers' successor in Congress, Hon. D. J. Foster, who has been the means of having many rural routes established and the salaries of the carriers increased. Mr. Foster has given close attention to this work and has thoroughly investigated the suggestions as to new routes and wherever practicable has recommended their installation. The rural communities are certainly under obligations to Judge Powers and Congressman Foster for this modern mail service.—Morrisville News and Citizen.

Camel's Hump.

All should be interested in developing Camel's Hump as a mountain resort. If the present plans are carried out a substantial stone house on the tip-top will be put up next year and a carriage road built.—Waterbury Record.

Vermonters Degree-d.

Among the distinguished Vermonters to receive the degree of LL.D. at the recent commencement season were Congressman Haskins and Editor Harvey of Harper's Weekly. The former received his degree from Norwich university at Northfield, and it was a fitting recognition of Col. Haskins' services while in Congress to a military institution which ranks next to West Point in efficiency. Col. Harvey is a man of letters who has made good both as a writer and a speaker, and his degree came from the university of Nevada on the occasion of his memorable address on the unveiling of the John W. Mackay statue. Congratulations to Dr. Haskins and Dr. Harvey.—St. Johnsbury Caledonian.

Sunday Closing in Brattleboro.

It is high time that Brattleboro people in general should be reminded to the extent of "viewing with alarm" the ridiculous, nonsensical and wholly unnecessary Sunday closing movement that has started in this town. Whenever occasion offers we "point with pride" to the many advantages that Brattleboro offers as a place in which to live the year round or simply to spend the summer months; we play the bigger, busier, better Brattleboro tune on the slightest provocation, and never neglect an opportunity to tell outsiders what a hustling, what an up-to-date community this little southern Vermont metropolis is; in short, we sing the praises of Brattleboro wherever and whenever opportunity offers. It is right and proper that we do this (and "we" in this case means every public-spirited citizen of the town), but in so doing we must not forget that the town must be made all that we claim for it. If we are going to keep in town what people we already have and induce more to locate here, we must quit making monkeys of ourselves, as we appear to be doing in this Sunday closing fad.

The law which prohibits all work except "acts of necessity or charity" on the Sabbath has been on the statute books a long time and will doubtless remain there for years to come in spite of efforts to amend it. But law when not backed by public opinion amounts to very little, and we can get along very well under the present arrangement if we exercise a little common sense. The amount of Sunday business transacted in this town was never large enough to give us the reputation of being a Godless community. It has been possible, we admit, to buy a glass of soda, a saucer of ice-cream, a cigar or a Sunday paper, but that has never seemed to us sufficient cause for apprehension as to our future abode. Why shouldn't this innocent traffic in harmless, inexpensive and comforting luxuries be allowed to continue? Why shouldn't a working man or woman be allowed to purchase by the plate what his or her more fortunate neighbor can order by the quart? Why shouldn't the cooling effects of a glass of soda or an innocent bottle of Mexico be obtainable by the hot and dusty automobilist who stops here on his Sunday outing?

If there are people in Brattleboro whose sense of morality is shocked by these harmless practices, let them move to Somerset, where land is cheap, where Sunday papers do not corrupt and where drug stores and soda fountains do not profane the Sabbath air. Or if Somerset is not exactly to their liking, let them pick out any little hamlet in the woods and sit down for seven days in the week. But as for the rest of us, let us see to it that the efforts we are making for a livelier, more up-to-date, more prosperous town are not nullified by the misguided notions of a few folk whose day and generation are nearly past. For the present and future welfare of Brattleboro we want to hang on to all the young people we have and get as many more as possible to make this town

MONTPELIER

Work of Installing Chimes is Watched With Interest.

The work of installing the ten bell chimes at Trinity Church is witnessed with much interest by crowds of spectators. The bells are of graduated sizes and are hoisted by a derrick. On the largest bell is this inscription: "In loving memory of my father and mother, I join with my son, Harry M. Cross, in the dedication of these bells. George H. Cross, May 6, 1908." Each of the smaller bells also had an inscription conveying some sentiment. It is expected the bells will be rung for the first time Saturday evening.

Miss Evelyn Bishop and Miss Georgiana Wheeler are at Lake Woodbury in camp for a few days.

Mrs. Frank H. Tracy left yesterday for Highgate Springs where Mrs. Fred M. Benway, her daughter, is in camp.

Miss Lucia Hadley, who has been employed during the rush time at the home office of the Vermont Mutual Fire Insurance company, returned yesterday to her home in Burlington.

Mason S. Stone, State superintendent of education, went yesterday to Presque Isle, Me. He will deliver addresses there and at Fort Kent, and later will take a guide and go into the Maine woods on a fishing trip.

The June edition of the Phoenix of Montpelier Seminary, issued this week, contains a full account of the graduating exercises and of the events of commencement week. It also has excellent cuts of the graduating class and of the board of managers of the Phoenix.

CHINAMAN DEPORTED

Taken from Rutland to New York by U. S. Marshal Bailey.

Rutland, July 23.—The first Chinaman deported from this district for his home land yesterday when Suey Lung was taken from the House of Correction here to New York by Marshal Horace W. Bailey. Lung will be turned over at New York to Deputy Marshall Bennett, who has charge of all Chinamen deported from New England.

Lung was arrested in April on a south bound Rutland railroad train on complaint of Chinese Inspector A. L. Weeks of Richmond. He was ordered deported by Commissioner James A. Merrill of this city but appealed to the United States district court, Judge J. L. Martin on June 27 affirmed the decision of Mr. Merrill. Bark Gown, who was arrested at the same time as Lung and was admitted to $800 bail, did not appear when wanted and his bail was forfeited. He is still at large.

JINGLES AND JESTS

The Occasion For It.

"He says he never prayed in all his life."
 "What a monotonous existence! Apparently he has never been in a tight place."—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Striking Resemblance.

"Why does old Richman call his auto after his son-in-law, the Duke?"
 "Because its first cost was the smallest item."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Close Beginning.

Miserly Bridegroom (as the carriage moves off)—Hey, there, save that rice!
 —New York Life.

Mr. Microbe.

When Mr. Microbe comes along
 He doesn't whir nor buzz;
 He doesn't even sing a song.
 As his mother Mosquito does,
 He lights upon your hands or lips
 In silence most profound
 And rests a bit before he skips
 Inquiringly around.
 But, ah, dear child, beware of him,
 For if your hands are soiled
 And if your clothes are not brushed
 And if your milk's not boiled
 He'll bite you with whole rows of teeth!
 He always keeps them sharp—
 And then you'll wear a golden wreath
 And stum a golden harp.
 —New York American.

Dangerous Youngster.

"You'd better be kind of careful how you talk to me," said Tommy, doubling his small fists and glaring at the other boy. "I've got the artistic temperament, and I've got it bad!"—Chicago Tribune.

At the Seaside.

"Oh, George, can't you just smell the salt water?"
 "More than that, Maria—I can taste it in the ice cream."—Detroit Free Press.

Your Sweetest Hour.

What was your greatest hour? The one wherein
 You chose the way and ventured forth?
 The one
 In which was born the courage to begin
 The profitable task which has been done?

Was it the hour in which you learned the glad,
 Sweet secret hidden deeply in her breast?
 Or was it when you found out that you had
 Two crumpled dollars in your last year's vest?
 —Chicago Record-Herald.

Plenty of Kicks Coming.
 A wise man once said to his son,
 "Whenever you think of a pun
 Go out in the yard
 And kick yourself hard
 And let me begin when you're done."
 —Cornell Widow.

A Lost Illusion.

Mr. Baker—I want to tell you, my love, that the horrid story we heard about Mrs. Brown is not true.
 Mrs. Baker—Oh, dear! What made you tell me? Now I'll have nothing to talk about at the card club.—Brooklyn Life.
